Sweet Screens

This edition of the Decorated Apparel Product Guide features something that decorators dream of. Well, maybe not — but what we've got sure will help create anything you do dream up. This time, we've brought you an assortment of items that enrich the creative process: graphics programs and screen printing separations software.

Second Glance Software Inc.

PhotoSpot is a plug-in for Adobe Photoshop that creates continuous tone separations using spot-color inks. Users can choose any color that dominates a portion of a given image, from any system that Photoshop supports. It works for screen printing and commercial applications.

Fast Films

FastFilms is a six-in-one suite of programs that does index color separations, simulated process color, hot-split heat transfer separations, CMYK process color and more. It is WindowsXP and Mac OSX (Jaguar and Panther) compatible and works on Photoshop CS 8.0.

Screenprint Separator

This export module lets users take any image from Photoshop to Illustrator in spot color or opaque process color in six, eight or 10 colors. It supports from two to 16 spot colors, and by blending these colors, produces thousands of colors.

Corel Corp.

CorelDRAW Graphics Suite 12 now includes Microsoft Office and WordPerfect Office export capabilities that can enhance text documents and presentations with graphics. Other new features include drawing tools for shapes and placement.

Freehand Graphics/ColorCrunch

ColorCrunch is an Adobe Photoshop color separation program that can reproduce images with a minimum of colors and screens.

Adobe

Adobe Photoshop CS software is the new upgrade from Photoshop 7.0, with features for graphic and Web design, photography and video. It also has an improved file browser, match color command, histogram palette and shadow/highlight correction.

CADLink Technology Corp.

Photoscript 7.0 features a color picker user interface that lets users choose the best color to reproduce an image while reducing the number of screens needed on press. It has several tools for color print management.
